

You're invited, North Dakota school leaders!

Schools across the state have demonstrated resilience, perseverance, and dedication for quality education. Leading in schools can be isolating and complicated work. You don't have to lead alone.

North Dakota superintendents and school building level leaders are invited to join the stellar leaders in the Leadership Circle community. The community is made up of collaborative supportive members who are willing to give help and to receive it.

In partnership, NDDPI and Cognia™ recognize the importance of a support structure for leaders to meet North Dakota needs while accessing resources between state lines.

Circles are better than rows.

Leaders need and deserve to invest in themselves and their own development to best serve their students, staff, and community.

Predicting the future is impossible, yet, there is a rich collective wisdom when leaders come together to collaborate and help each other.

The Leadership Circle is a growing national community of invested superintendents and principals. It provides an intimate and trusted space for leaders to collaborate efficiently with like-minded peers outside of their local environments.

Leadership Circle members have access to:

-  Solution Circles
When members submit a problem, within a week we gather leaders throughout the country to collaborate and discuss solutions.
-  Weekly Leader Chats
Every week members can join live or watch on-demand talks with top leaders, authors, and educators, like Amanda Ripley, Andy Hargreaves, Linda Darling Hammond, Michael Fullan, Karin Chenowith, Robert Marzano, and Daniel Pink.
-  Think Tanks
When common, complex issues become a trend, members are invited to discussions to talk through potential solutions.
-  Online Private Community
The Cognia Learning Community is a 24/7 online tool, where Leadership Circle members have exclusive content and can connect with other members.

This opportunity is free for ND superintendents and principals. Please consider joining the Leadership Circle community. To learn more, visit cognia.org/leadership-circle-ND.
